FORWARD

Dear Reader:

Just as we have recorded the great deeds which were done by Washington and other great heroes of the past, we must record our great deeds. The tasks we undertake to do here in Granite Quarry High School are our deeds which we should always be proud of.

In publishing this annual, "The Quarrier", we make a record which will preserve our progress for those who wish to review it.

DEDICATION

To honor and revere our forefathers, who established the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, we, the Seniors of nineteen hundred forty-four, dedicate this issue of the QUARRIER.

We shall never know how high have been the prices paid, to exert the wisdom, diligence, and patience to up-hold those ideals set forth by the pioneers of Democracy—those pioneers of Liberty and Freedom.

We, the Seniors of Granite Quarry High School are proud to remember the forerunners of victory and peace for ever more.

HISTORY

In the year of Our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, pilgrims in search of knowledge, landed on the shores of a country new and vastly different to them. The country in which they settled was known as Granite Quarry High School. These Pilgrims banded together to form a new settlement. The members of this new settlement were known as Freshmen by the more experienced settlers.

Every group, whether its members be seeking freedom, precious metals or wisdom must have leaders. Mr. E. C. Staton was the chief leader of this tribe and Miss Sara Wellman and Miss Mary Fletcher were his assistants.

This new land in which we had settled was run on democratic principles so for this settlement, Frances Trexler was elected president.

Quickly a year passed, and the band of Freshmen had advanced far enough in their search for knowledge that they were ready to occupy the territory first vacated by the Sophomores. In this new territory they were known by the name of their predecessors, "the Sophomores".

Again, Mr. E. C. Staton was the chief leader. His assistants were Mr. Noah Hamerick and Mr. Theodore Leonard. John David Holshouser served as president, Frances Trexler as vice-president, and Sidney Ray Bernhardt as secretary and treasurer.

The Freshmen year had been rough and many had fallen by the way; but thirty-three boys and forty-three girls held steadfastly to their goals.

Another year sped by, and the seekers after wisdom had reached Junior territory. The Sophomore year had been difficult and the tribe had dwindled in size to number only twenty-two boys and thirty-eight girls.

During the third year, Mr. E. C. Staton was again Chief leader and Miss Edith Chambers and Mr. Holland Brinkley were his assistants. Norma Jean Melchor served as president, John David Holshouser as vice-president and Frances Trexler as secretary and treasure.

Since the pilgrims had become more accustomed to the land, the way was becoming easier, so there was more time for recreation. The Juniors gave a successful production of, "Aunt Tillie

THE QUARRIER

Goes to Town." The Juniors entertained the Seniors at a reception in the High School gymnasium.

The lowly Freshmen had traveled so far in their search for increased knowledge, and had been so successful that now they were in the mightiest tribe of all, the Senior class.

Mr. E. C. Staton was again chief leader, and Miss Lillian Misenheimer and Mrs. Ruth Sowers were his assistants. John David Holshouser was president of the Seniors. Edith McCombs, vice-president; Ruth Miller, secretary and treasure.

With the close of epoch four, our journey through the country of Granite Quarry High School is over, but wider and more difficult fields lie before us. As we go into the world we must conquer each arising difficulty as here we have conquered the old, so that at the very end each of us can proudly say; "I came; I saw; I conquered."

Edith McCombs, Historian

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT
OF
THE SENIOR CLASS OF GRANITE QUARRY HIGH SCHOOL

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

ROWAN COUNTY

We, the members of the Senior Class of 1944, of Granite Quarry High School, all being of sound mind and having unquestioned memory do hereby make this our last will and testament.

Section I: To Mr. Staton, and all the faculty, we leave all our sincere thanks and gratitude for the constant guidance through the past four years.

Section II: To those who have patiently watched over us and have listened to our never ending problems, Our Parents, we leave our sincere love, and devotion. Without your guidance our accomplishments would have been in vain.

Section III: In addition to the foregoing, we the members of the Senior Class would like to make the following bequeaths:

Frances Trexler leaves her intelligence to Peggy Lyerly and Dorothy Stinson.

Edith McCombs leaves her place as a music student to Betty Kluttz.

Frances Drye, the queen of the Carnival leaves her place to Ruby Haire, and her neatness to Doris Corl.

Ray Bernhardt wills his politeness to Grover Shook.

John David Holshouser leaves his good looks to Harold Melton.

Ruth Miller wills her beautiful hair to Emma Lou Fisher.

John Barger leaves his knowledge of everybody else's business to Norman Holshouser.

James Mills leaves all his airplane drawings to Billy Eagle.

C. C. Caskey leaves his blue coat to Joe Lyerly.

Jean Hall leaves her ability of getting to school when the last bell is ringing to Sue Kluttz.

Herman Ribelin leaves his ability to make "nick-names" for everyone in high school to Bobby Peeler and Edward Lesley.

Ruth Earnhardt wills her personality to Naomi Brown.

Julia Peeler wills her chewing gum that she always chews in typing class to Lillian Smith and Patsy Hamilton.

Freda Rogers wills her ability to find something to talk about any time to Rosalie Adams.

TIVE QUARRIER

Lucille Davis leaves her friendly personality to June Thomas.

Madge Brown leaves her ability to play Basketball to Doris Peeler and Frankie Poole.

Edith Lingle leaves her comb and mirror to Irene Elium and Frances Hunsucker.

Sylvia Fowler wills her Chemistry Book to Inez Bernhardt.

Ray Ritchie leaves some of his height and good looks to L. B. Eller and Donald Hoke.

Norma Jean Melchor leaves her spirit of cooperation to Pearl Fisher.

Dorothy Graham leaves her quietness to Virginia Lingle and Ophelia Hudson.

Billie Barger leaves his ability to drive a school bus to Marcus Sifford and Earl Moore.

Mary Frances Foster leaves her fast typing ability to Mary Frances Starnes and Frances Holshouser.

Georgia Barger leaves her French book and the hope that they get more out of it than she has to Marion Reaves and Jim Eller.

Virginia Brinkley leaves her dark red lipstick to Pauline Euart.

Sally Fisher leaves all her height to Frank Shaver (better known as Shorty).

Effie Kluttz leaves that oh-so-innocent blush to Mary Ellen Gibson.

Anne Honeycutt leaves her operatic ability to Ada Bowers.

Dorothy Barger leaves her "eye for the boys" to Velma Eagle.

Warren Morgan leaves his curly blonde hair to Lawrence Fink and Harvey Trexler.

S. B. Snider leaves his ever-present collection of wise cracks to Jimmy Brown.

Louise Lefler wills her shyness to Helen Barger.

Madge Lingle wills her ability to dodge all the teachers to Jim Staton.

Dewey Miller leaves his slow-but-sure ways to Francis Doyle and Ray Banks Kluttz.

Floyd Elium leaves his bright sayings to Vonnie Agner.

M. L. Wagoner leaves his Funny Books to Perry Suttle and Fred Gheen.

And now that we are graduates, we should like to leave some advice to the underclassmen so that they may correct themselves in the errors that we have made.

Section IV: To the freshmen we leave the hope that someday soon in the future they will be honored graduates. Prepare yourself for this great event.

THE QUARTER

Section V: Sophomore the way may seem easy to you now the outlook may seem bright and cheery, but remember there is a serious side of life too.

Section VI: Juniors, all the responsibility now lies on you. You are now taking our places. Let us leave with you a few reminders.

Follow the advice of the faculty and you can't go wrong. Fill your places as ladies and gentlemen. And finally set an example, as we have, so that all can follow in your footsteps.

CLASS PROPHECY

It was a warm spring afternoon, when one becomes drowsy and tired of books. I seated myself in a shady little nook and tried to concentrate on the future of my classmates. I closed my eyes and tried to penetrate into the mysteries of the future but it was all in vain. I soon dropped into slumber. Suddenly something appeared before me. Why it was a little fairy smiling at me with eyes like dew drops. "I heard your wish and have come to assist you in your distress."

"Oh," I cried, "wilt thou show me the future of my classmates?"

"You must come with me to the Queen," she replied, "and she will help you." In a minute we were flying swiftly through the air and landed in a large bed of flowers. She presented me with a pair of crystal glasses with which I was enabled to see the fairy court in all its beauty. My fairy companion then told the Queen of my wish and she said it could be granted on one condition, that I should always believe in the fairies. I promised this immediately. A little fairy called Forget-me-not was summoned to take me on my journey. I was given a robe to make me invisible and a cane. A rug was presented to carry us on our travels. Suddenly the scenes changed to five years from the present.

The rug flew up into the air and my guide and I were carried many miles into the sunny parts of Florida. There I recognized Lucille Davis and her one and only sailor on their honeymoon.

While yet in Florida, we found ourselves at the library in Tampa. Mary Frances Foster, jolly as ever, was the head librarian.

We were forced to go on and I found myself in the heart of Texas. There Dewey Miller was the owner of a large cattle ranch.

Our next stop was at a great air field in Texas. There in the midst of the field was a Flying Fortress getting ready to take off to a secret destination. Piloting the plane was Ray Ritchie. As the plane was leaving the ground I noticed a nurse waving to the pilot. Only a slight glimpse showed me that it was another one of my classmates, Julia Peeler.

We were off again and soon landed in California. Who's this? Dorothy Barger, married and living happily in an orange grove.

THE QUARTIER

Next we were in Chicago and there was Herman Ribelin tinkering with a battered radio.

We arrived next at a large bus station in Indiana. In one of the buses was Ray Bernhardt, getting ready to make his run for the day and sitting in the seat behind him was Frances Drye taking a pleasure trip.

Our next landing place was in a large baseball diamond, and to my amazement, I saw Warren Morgan now the manager of the Yankees.

On stopping at New York, we naturally went to Broadway. Much to my surprise I found Sylvia Fowler, leading lady in the play, "Mulberry Square."

We were then carried to an office in New York where I found Georgia Barger giving the daily gymnasium exercises over the radio.

The scene changed quickly to a circus. Who was the main attraction but James Mills!

We were carried on further and there was Freda Rogers, now a famous designer for John Powers. And who's this strolling around? Why it's Madge Brown modeling the latest style.

Before leaving New York we stopped at a jewelry store—"Holshouser's Jewelry Store." It's owner was John David Holshouser and who is that cute stenographer beside his desk? Virginia Brinkley!

We hurried on and were soon in Washington, D. C. Why there is Jean Hall and a sailor, C. C. Caskey, looking at diamond rings. C. C. is on a seven-day leave.

Still in Washington and stopping at the F. B. I. office. What is that Ruth Earnhardt is inspecting so closely? It's a revolver used in the murder of Mayor La Guardia.

Our next stop was in the "Old North State". Is that Frances Trexler who is busily preparing dinner? But who for? Sure enough, it's Mr. Helms and their two little Helms' waiting in the living room for her to get dinner on the table.

We soon were at the capital of N. C. There I found Ruth Miller as secretary to Governor M. L. Waggoner.

We landed again this time in Greensboro at Greensboro College, and there was Edith McCombs, receiving her degree as a Music teacher.

The next scene was at a large beauty parlor in Winston-Salem. I found that the owner was Effie Kluttz.

Gazing now over the streets of Salisbury, I caught sight of one of my old classmates, S.B. Snider, now in the Navy, and on a leave.

We hurried on and stopped at the Salisbury Memorial Hospital. I learned Madge Lingle was head nurse, and was engaged to be married to the head doctor, Floyd Ellum.

The next scene was a surprise. A young man was telling some others how to keep from being bashful. He was introduced as Mr. Bill Barger, sheik of the ladies.

Soon, we were over a large farm. There, Edith Lingle was finishing the evening work. She had landed the Yankee Lieutenant!

Our next stop was at Dunns' Mountain. There I learned that Louise Lefler was now a noted seamstress.

We soon found ourselves back at old Granite High, in the Agriculture room. And guess who? None other than John Barger, as the teacher: who still possesses his gleaming red hair.

The next scene was one of great interest. Anne Honeycutt had finished at Catawba College and now teaching at Granite Quarry High School.

In a minute, we were at the Farmer's and Merchant's Bank in Granite Quarry. There as the bank cashier was Sally Fisher.

Our last scene was through the window of a small cottage. There I saw Stella Cauble and Dorothy Graham, housekeeping for themselves. They still cared little for the opposite sex.

Something made me jump. I sat up and rubbed my eyes. I was still seated in the little nook and had traveled in dreamland. The bell was ringing, so I ran in the dormitory, wandering if the foretold prophecy would come true.

CLASS SONG

Tune: Finlandia

Oh Granite High, to thee we say farewell
Four years we spent neath your dear friendly halls, we love.
We've loved each one, and all its teachers dear.
Now we must leave, Must say good-by
The world is waiting now for us it calls;
Our duties lie in fields abroad.

Sometimes we've failed to do our very best,
But we have worked and now have reached our goal;
We've studied hard, we've laughed, we've played together
For memories dear will linger long
Oh, Juniors, you must take our places here,
Dear Granite High, This is Farewell.

THE SENIOR CLASS PLAY

The Senior Class presented a three act comedy by Anne Coulter Martens on March 31, 1944 entitled "Don't Keep Him Waiting."

Betty, the mainstay of the irresponsible Ramble Family, loses her job, but this has no effect on the buying and charging of things to Betty. Dave urges her to leave her family and to go with him to South America, but she refuses, so Dave turns to a cute Southern charmer. Jinny persuades her to go on a wild shopping spree—and to charge everything to the other members of the family. She also flirts with Mr. Atkins to get even with Dave. It works! The family finally realizes their faults and all pitch in to make things right for Betty. She almost misses the boat which is taking her Dave South on their honeymoon.

The cast of characters were:

- JEFF RAMBLE.....who is a camera fan.....WARREN MORGAN
- TOODLES.....his younger sister who is reducing.....MADGE BROWN
- BETTY.....his older sister who pays the bills.....ANNE HONEYCUTT
- OWEN.....his father an armchair traveler.....RAY RITCHIE
- SELINA.....his aunt a horoscope fan.....EDITH McCOMBS
- JINNY.....who is a good little pal.....MADGE LINGLE
- CHESTER.....who is allergic to work.....RAY BERNHARDT
- SALLY LOU.....who fascinates.....SALLY FISHER
- MINERVA.....who giggles.....FREDA ROGERS
- DAVID VANCE.....who is tired of waiting...JOHN DAVID HOLSHOUSER
- AMOS ATKINS.....who is interested in antiques.....FLOYD ELIUM
- O'TOOLE.....who wants his money.....JOHN BARGER

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

With a full squadron of experienced basketball players returning this year we faced a very successful year, suffering only two defeats and one tie in the county race.

Entering the Landis Tournament we came out second place, winning a beautiful trophy to bring back to our school.

Games won---	11	Granite Quarrys' total points-	410
Games lost--	2	Opponents total points-----	197
Games tied--	1

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Coach Holland L. Brinkley faced a very difficult problem in getting the boys trained for a good team. There were no regulars back from the champions of last years' tournament and only one reserve. In spite of this problem the boys fought all season losing only 7 games in the county race.

Games won---	7	Granite Quarrys' total points-	307
